

Australian Hearing Hub

sound research. sound innovation.

LANGUAGE, LITERACY AND COGNITION IN CHILDREN WITH HEARING IMPAIRMENT

AUSTRALIAN HEARING HUB INAUGURAL CONFERENCE 2013

The Australian Hearing Hub at Macquarie University, Sydney, Australia is launching its new state-of-the-art facilities with a conference on 17-19 April 2013. The Australian Hearing Hub brings together leading hearing-related research, clinical and educational organisations under one roof with a common purpose – to conduct research that will enhance the lives of people with hearing impairment.

An outstanding opportunity

This inaugural conference will provide an outstanding opportunity for Australian and international researchers to exchange current knowledge and findings on the broad themes of language, literacy and cognition in children with hearing impairment, and to set future research agendas to address this challenging topic. In addition, submissions on the normal development of language, literacy and/or cognition in children that inform their development in children with hearing impairment will also be considered.

Libby Harricks Memorial Oration

A special part of the event will be the Libby Harricks Memorial Oration, held annually by the Deafness Forum of Australia. This year's speaker will be Professor Laurie Eisenberg from the House Ear Institute in Los Angeles.

Want to attend?

To express an interest in attending and/or presenting at the conference, please go to hearinghub.edu.au/conf2013.

The Australian Hearing Hub Inaugural Conference 2013 is proudly supported by these organisations.

The Australian Hearing Hub is an initiative of the Australian Government as part of the Education Investment Fund.

INAUGURAL CONFERENCE 2013

