Who Needs CaptionCall?

Anyone who has trouble hearing on the phone is a good candidate for CaptionCall. Some people have difficulty hearing certain frequencies, such as a grandchild's voice. Sometimes it is difficult to understand numbers and names. It can also be difficult to understand the conversation if the caller has a soft voice or the connection is bad. CaptionCall works well for people with or without hearing aids.

Patient Eligibility Requirements

There is no predetermined decibel threshold to qualify for CaptionCall. The individual must simply have a hearing loss that, in your professional opinion, necessitates the use of captioned telephone service to communicate effectively by phone. They must also have a standard home phone line and Internet connection to use this service.

How Can CaptionCall Be Free?

As a provision of the Americans with Disabilities Act, the FCC established a fund to give individuals with hearing loss access to captioned telephone service at no cost. CaptionCall is an FCC-authorized captioned telephone service provider. The federal government compensates CaptionCall for providing the captioning service. The CaptionCall phone is not covered by the federal fund but is provided by CaptionCall so eligible individuals may easily access the service. There is literally no cost to participate in this federal program when certification from a hearing-care professional is provided.

Ordering a CaptionCall Phone Is Easy

Order a CaptionCall phone for your qualified patients in one quick step. Simply complete the Professional Certification Form and send it to us via email (certification@captioncall.com) or fax to 1-888-778-5838. The forms are available through your local CaptionCall representative or at www.captioncall.com.

When we receive the form, we will contact your patient to schedule the delivery and installation of a free CaptionCall phone. For assistance with the order process, please call 1-877-557-2227.

No Hassle for Your Practice

As a CaptionCall Provider, there is no inventory to stock or handle, no product support requirements and no contracts to sign. We take care of everything!
